McKinley Irvin Named One of “Washington’s 100 Best Companies to Work For” by Seattle Business Magazine

Family Law Firm McKinley Irvin Ranked #48 Among Small-Sized Companies

SEATTLE, Wash. – June 17, 2011 – McKinley Irvin, Washington’s largest law firm focused exclusively on divorce and family law, announced today that it was awarded a #48 ranking on Seattle Business Magazine’s 100 Best Companies to Work For in the small business category.

Seattle Business Magazine annually recognizes the top companies in Washington State that set high standards for employee satisfaction, leadership, benefits, information sharing, and creating a positive work environment.

Since 1991, McKinley Irvin has grown into the largest family law firm in Washington State with offices in Seattle and Tacoma. The firm has also recently expanded into Portland.

“To be recognized by Seattle Business Magazine for the workplace we’ve built at McKinley Irvin is an honor,” said Sands McKinley, cofounder and managing partner of McKinley Irvin. “We are committed to being a top tier firm that provides our employees with successful and rewarding careers in an environment that promotes innovation.”

This is the first year McKinley Irvin was nominated for the Seattle Business Magazine 100 Best Companies to Work For list.

The 100 Best Companies to Work For were determined based on survey results completed by employees of nominated companies. An independent firm, Gilmore Research Group, provided survey results to the panel of judges who selected the top 100 companies.
