Colin Patzer is passionate about helping people who find themselves navigating the legal system unexpectedly. His reassuring demeanor and exceptional listening skills help his clients feel comfortable during stressful legal circumstances.

"I take pride in guiding my clients through what can often be a daunting and bewildering process and ensuring their interests are protected."

Colin has an aptitude for litigation that was apparent from the start. Immersing himself in the world of mock trial competitions as early as undergraduate school, Colin went on to secure a remarkable third-place position at the nation's premiere law school mock trial competition. Serving as a Deputy Prosecutor at the Snohomish County Prosecutor's Office, he conducted an impressive tally of 11 trials in his first year.

Born and raised in Washington, Colin attended Brandeis University. He lived in Boston for over six years before attending the University of Denver Sturm College of Law. He enjoys climbing, paddle boarding, and video games.

"I personally felt that everyone involved in the case actually cared and enjoyed their job and were fighting for my rights. They definitely felt like family and treated me so."
