Family law attorney Lindsay D. Camandona is a fifth-generation Tacoma native who represents clients in a wide range of divorce, custody, and family law matters in Washington State from the McKinley Irvin Tacoma law office. Lindsay thrives on the fact that she can make a difference in the lives of the people and families in her community through the practice of law.

"There is a need in family law for attorneys to provide an emotional outlet," says Lindsay. "I pay the utmost attention to the feelings and emotions that drive my clients, and I respect them."

"The outcome of a family law case can have a lifelong impact, and it is my priority to achieve a resolution they can live and be happy with."

Lindsay's clients also benefit from her ability to be tough and tenacious in advocating practical, workable and realistic legal solutions. She ensures that her clients understand their choices and what they can expect, and helps them prepare for what will very likely be one of the most difficult times in their lives. Her approach is designed to reduce stress by providing information and support continuously throughout the legal process.

"I'm a very family oriented person," says Lindsay. "I take great pride in the help I provide to people through practicing family law. I work hard for my clients to protect what is most cherished and important to them."

"Lindsay immediately put my mind at ease and treated my case with the utmost urgency. Her professionalism, knowledge of family law, and attention to detail I feel is unmatched. Both Lindsay and the staff at McKinley Irvin made me feel safe, secure, and properly represented."
