An experienced courtroom lawyer, Rachel Bender's practice focuses on high net-worth divorces, property distribution, UCCJEA issues, non-parent custody, and domestic violence matters.

Rachel has quickly earned a reputation as a go-to attorney in the Seattle area, having achieved successful outcomes for her clients through mediation and at trial. She has been recognized repeatedly by her peers as a top attorney in Washington, and has been named a Rising Star by Super Lawyers® every year since 2018. Rachel's passion is working closely with families, individuals, and businesses to protect their rights, loved ones, and financial future.

"I hope it gives my clients comfort to know that we will champion their interests and are truly invested in achieving a successful outcome on their behalf."

While Rachel is a skilled trial lawyer, she is also an effective negotiator who frequently achieves optimal results without litigation. Having managed an active family law practice before joining the firm, Rachel says success in family law boils down to one thing:

"Obviously, strong legal knowledge and skills are imperative. But more than anything, what sets a truly effective lawyer apart is compassion. This is the most personal area of law to practice, period. If you don't have compassion, patience, and understanding, you can't serve your clients well."

Rachel and her husband are the proud parents of two young daughters. An artist and adventurer at heart, she also enjoys painting, open-water diving, and woodworking, a skill she learned from her grandfather, a Master Carpenter. She is currently reconstructing her pantry from her own design.

"It was wonderful to have someone who cares so deeply about her own family help take care of our own. Rachel takes pride in what she does for a living and you can tell she's passionate about the security of people's futures."
