Theresa Lorella became an attorney to help people find their voices in difficult and emotional circumstances.

"Expressing yourself can be challenging in any situation, but more so when your whole life is about to change. That's why I always prioritize my client's need to be heard and validated, whether I'm helping them navigate a contentious divorce, modify a parenting plan, or negotiate a property settlement."

First and foremost, this entails listening. Theresa's clients are relieved to have someone listen to their perspective, their concerns, and their hopes for the future, and by fully understanding where her clients are coming from, she can help them achieve the best resolution.

While she is a strong advocate in litigation, Theresa believes in reducing conflict whenever possible. She is specially trained in collaborative law and serves as a neutral mediator in settlement conferences. This experience gives her a unique perspective and the tools to think "outside of the litigation box." Whether she is acting as an attorney or as a mediator, Theresa is highly efficient in facilitating fair and long-lasting agreements.

"I view each family law case as a puzzle to solve instead of a fight to be had. My goal as an attorney is to help my clients minimize conflict, anxiety, and discord while advocating for their needs."

Theresa has significant experience representing clients in the technology industry and in high-value asset cases involving real estate, work-related benefits, and stock award division. As a trained guardian ad litem (GAL), she is effective in cases involving parenting plans and non-parental custody.

Outside of the office, Theresa keeps busy by running marathons, publishing novels, and chasing after her two young children.

"Theresa has been very responsive and helpful in navigating my divorce and a subsequent change to my parenting plan. She has always answered my questions and completed paperwork in a timely manner.

"I have been working with Theresa for almost a year now. I hired her to represent me in a high conflict divorce and custody case. She has been consistently excellent in her responsiveness to my concerns and ability to conduct herself with integrity when against very unprofessional opposing counsel. She has been compassionate and understanding of the stressful dynamics of my case while helping me focus on the best ways to productively move forward legally. I highly recommend her.
